4075	AMST-802-01	Primary Research Matls Enrollment limited to 15. NOTE: Course not open to undergraduates. This seminar is designed to enable students to identify, evaluate, and use a range of primary sources, from personal letters, vital records, and the census to photographs, oral history, and newspapers. Students will critically read secondary literature to explore how other scholars have used primary sources, and will develop research projects on topics of their own choosing, based on primary sources available in local archives and repositories. Course not open to undergraduates.	1.00	SEM	Staff	W:06:30PM-09:30PM	Y	/ REG
5855	AMST-825-01	Museums,Vis Cult&Crit Theory Enrollment limited to 15. This course aims to examine the issues brought up in key theoretical readings by applying their insights to case studies, particularly cases of museum exhibitions and programs. Issues to be addressed include: reproduction and spectacle; gender and display; ethnicity, 'primitivism,' and race; and sexuality, sexual practice, and censorship. Case studies will vary each year and will range from exhibitions focusing on consumption, to ethnicity and race (such as the Holocaust Memorial Museum and the Pequot Museum), and sexuality (The Museum of Sex; the Robert Mapplethorpe exhibitions). Each class will combine theoretical readings with considerations of museum practice. By the end of the semester, students shall be able to analyze exhibitions using both the tools of postmodern theory and practical observation and history.	1.00	SEM	McCombie,Mary E. 7026	HIST-204-01	The Crusades From the eleventh through the fifteenth centuries, Christians from Western Europe were pitted in a series of holy wars against their Islamic, Pagan, and even other Christian neighbors. This course offers a multi-faceted look at military, political, religious, and cultural themes from the era of the Crusades. The idea of "crusade" has survived to this day and has as much, if not more, cultural significance now than at its inception in 1095.	1.00	LEC	Elukin,Jonathan	TR:10:50AM-12:05PM		HUM / REG

5989	PBPL-806-01	Methods of Research Enrollment limited to 15. This course is intended to empower students to evaluate common forms of research critically, and to give them some experience in conducting research. Through a series of weekly assignments and class projects, students will be introduced to the shaping of research questions; hypothesis testing, writing a research paper, conducting interviews and surveys, giving a professional presentation, and presenting simple tabular data to prove a point. The course does not require an extensive mathematics background. Regular attendance and access to a computer, e-mail, and the Web are expected.	1.00	LEC	Hughes,James J.	W:06:30PM-09:10PM		/ REG
5991	PBPL-808-01	Public Policy & Art of Argumnt Enrollment limited to 15. This course will examine the history, methods, and types of successful, formal, written argumentation in policy advocacy. Among the arenas explored will be courts of law, legislative bodies, and the broader field of public opinion. Most course material will be drawn from case studies.	1.00	LEC	Miller,Mark	M:06:30PM-09:10PM	Y	/ REG
5993	PBPL-826-01	Urban Admin & Publ Polcy Enrollment limited to 15. This course will allow in-depth exploration of policy issues that affect cities. By working both with technical tools of analysis and the social, historical, and political aspects of problem solving, students will select a contemporary urban issue for study. Emphasis will be placed on policy issues facing the city of Hartford and potential design choices in areas such as employment, welfare, housing, taxes/expenditures, education, and transportation. Direct interaction with public leaders will contribute to a broader understanding of the factors that affect urban decision-making.	1.00	LEC	Grasso,Raymond A.	T:06:30PM-09:10PM		/ REG
