STUDY AWAY IN ROME
THIS SUMMER

The Trinity College Rome Campus, established in 1970, offers students an outstanding educational opportunity in the heart of one of the world’s great cities, where glorious treasures and haunting ruins of several magnificent civilizations are stage to a vibrant, modern capital.

Trinity College is pleased to offer two distinct summer options at the Rome Campus:

• Three-Week Intensive Program (students take one course)
• Five-Week Language and Culture Program (students take two courses)

Study abroad in Rome and you’ll:
• Take courses taught in English and fulfill graduation requirements in the heart of one of the world’s great cities.
• Earn Trinity College credit and study alongside world-class faculty.
• Explore the very roots of the Western world in one of Europe’s most ancient locations, taking classes in political science, chemistry, history, art history, and more.
• Immerse yourself in the city of Rome through field seminars, site visits, walking tours, guest lectures, and more.
• Participate in a faculty-led overnight academic excursion to Naples, Pompeii, and Capri.
• Pursue a three- or five-week program that is brief enough to allow students to devote a larger part of summer to work, internships, or other pursuits back in the United States.

HOUSING AND MEALS

Trinity College Rome Campus summer students are housed in dormitory-style accommodations in a nearby hotel. Located on the Aventine Hill, the hotel is no more than a five-minute walk from campus.

• Most rooms are double occupancy, though some singles may be available.
• Each room is equipped with a private bathroom with a shower.
• Hotel staff members clean the rooms and make the beds daily.
• High-speed Internet access is available in all rooms and common areas (Wi-Fi).

During summer sessions, program participants are provided with five meals per week:
• Two group meals are served “family style” in the dining hall at the Rome Campus.
• Three meal coupons are redeemable at several local restaurants.

EXCURSIONS

Five-Week Language and Culture Program participants take an overnight academic excursion to Southern Italy, where they visit Naples, Capri, and Pompeii.

DIRECTOR AND RESIDENT STAFF

Livio Pestilli has been director and a professor at the Trinity College Rome Campus for more than 35 years. Equally at home in Italy and in the United States, he holds degrees from St. John Fisher College, The University of Chicago, and the University of Rome. An accomplished art historian, Pestilli currently is researching the depiction of the weak, the poor, and the vulnerable in Renaissance and Baroque art. Pestilli is supported by an experienced and dedicated team of four full-time administrative staff members, who are available to students 24/7.
ACADEMIC OVERVIEW

The Trinity College Rome Campus offers a broad liberal arts curriculum with courses taught in a wide range of disciplines. As much as possible, all courses make use of the resources of the city of Rome and of what can be seen and experienced directly:

- Students choose between two academic options: Three-Week Intensive Program or Five-Week Language and Culture Program.
- Courses are designed with an experiential component in the city at large and present students with the opportunity to become immersed in their host city through site visits, walking tours, and academic excursions throughout Rome.
- Classmates are North American students from the nation’s most prestigious colleges and universities.
- No Italian language experience is required; study-abroad students are NOT required to study Italian during the summer program, although they are encouraged to do so.

Faculty

Courses are taught by faculty and adjunct professors of the Trinity College Rome Campus and are approved as a regular part of Trinity’s undergraduate curriculum. Visiting faculty from Trinity College in Hartford, Connecticut, also may teach during summer programs.
