INTRODUCTION

This handbook covers essential information on the study away application process and about study away policies, procedures, and deadlines for Trinity students studying away for one or two semesters. Students interested in studying away in the summer should pick up a Summer Information Packet from the OSA, visit the OSA website, or contact the OSA for further information. Students who wish to study away in summer should begin planning early in the spring before the summer they wish to study away.

Approximately 60% of each graduating class participates in a study away program, most of them for a semester or full year. Trinity students from every major (including engineering and the sciences) can study away and earn credit toward their undergraduate degrees at Trinity. With proper planning students can also earn major, minor, and/or fulfill general distribution requirements, including the foreign language requirement.

With 9 Trinity-sponsored study away programs and many additional Affiliate and Pre-Approved programs, Trinity students can select from approximately one hundred study away options throughout the world.

STUDY AWAY ELIGIBILITY FOR SEMESTER/YEAR

Trinity students can study away for a semester or year as sophomores, juniors or first semester seniors. Students can study away up to three semesters.

Eligibility criteria:
1. Trinity students must have a minimum GPA of 2.5 at the time they submit their Request to Study Away. Most programs require a 2.7 or ABOVE. Students must also meet their specific program GPA requirements, over which the OSA has no control. Students will not be permitted to study away if they do not meet the Trinity minimum 2.5 requirement.
2. Before studying away all Trinity students must fulfill the Quantitative Literacy (“Math Proficiency”) Requirement. Students should plan their schedule accordingly.
3. To be eligible to study away, students must be in good academic standing (i.e. not on academic probation or censure) both when they apply to study away, and at the end of the semester prior to study. Students who incur academic probation will have their approval to study away rescinded.
4. Students must also be in good social standing (no serious disciplinary issues).
5. Students must meet all prerequisites and requirements of their selected program(s). Some programs require a minimum number of classes in a foreign language or other academic subject.
6. Students must have declared their majors prior to studying away.
STUDY AWAY ADVISING

OSA ADVISING

The Office of Study Away requires that students who want to study away for a semester/year begin planning approximately one year in advance.

In order to study away for a semester/year, students MUST complete the Steps to Study Away, found in the Study Away Process Moodle course, in which all eligible Sophomores and Juniors are automatically enrolled (see page 8 for eligibility details and more information on the process). Students must complete all steps of the process by December 17, 2014 for Fall 2015, Full Year 2015-2016, and Spring 2016. We recommend starting the process in October or November the year prior.

FACULTY ADVISING

Students must discuss their study away academic goals and plans with their academic advisor as early as possible. Students who have not yet declared a major should also meet with a faculty member in their prospective major(s) prior to finalizing their plans to study on a specific program. Students who are studying away for a semester or year must declare their major prior to studying away.

Academic advisors and major department faculty can help advise students on the courses they wish/need to take before, during, and after studying away. Faculty in their major or intended major can also inform students about specific requirements or limits to the amount of major credit that may be earned while away. This is very important, as departments have different policies regarding transfer credit and what can and cannot be counted towards the major. A good resource to help you plan your entire academic program is the Four-Year Planner that is available from the OSA or the Dean of Students Office.

It is important to ask the appropriate academic departments about future schedules of course offerings at Trinity and projected faculty leaves or sabbaticals. This information may influence a preferred choice of study away semester or even the year. Students planning to do a senior thesis should think about this as they plan to study away. Many students have done senior theses related to studies they pursued while abroad. Many programs offer internships, independent studies, or research opportunities. You can make the most of your academic experience by fully integrating your study away program to your studies at Trinity.
CHOOSING A PROGRAM

Trinity students are required to select study away programs (international or domestic) that are Pre-Approved by Trinity College. Students should refer to the list of pre-approved programs at the end of this document and the OSA web site as starting points in researching study away programs. Students can conduct further research by looking at the program websites and by meeting with the OSA staff.

Academic considerations: Talk with your academic advisor and faculty in your future major department – ask if there is a designated faculty member who advises students who wish to study away. It is very important to plan how to identify and plan to meet your academic goals for study away.

Peer mentoring: Meeting with a Global Ambassador (an upperclass student who has studied away and returned) is one of the steps to study away. They will give you the student perspective, which can help you choose the best program for you.

Interested in a program NOT on our pre-approved list? Students may petition to apply to a program not Pre-Approved by Trinity by completing the “petition” section in the online study away to request permission to apply to that program. Students who wish to petition after having submitted their request for an approved program should contact the Office of Study Away for instructions (studyaway@trincoll.edu). Because approval is not guaranteed, students will be asked to indicate a Trinity-Pre-Approved backup program. Students studying on petitioned programs pay the same study away fee as those on pre-approved programs (see the “Costs” section for details).

Studying at another college/university in the United States: There are some domestic study away options included in Trinity’s list of Pre-Approved Study Away Programs. Directly enrolling at a U.S. college or university outside of the 12 College Exchange is not considered studying away. Students who choose to do this do not apply through the OSA. They must voluntarily withdraw from Trinity through the Registrar’s Office and apply directly to their institution of choice. Although they can apply for transfer credit, they will not receive Trinity financial aid for this study.

Be Sure to Consider Trinity Programs!

- Developed by Trinity faculty,
- Administered by Trinity College Office of Study Away,
- Internship and volunteer opportunities.
- Independent Studies!
- Excursions built into the program.
- Sports placements.
- Strong support, personal attention.
- Grades count towards your GPA.
Things to consider BEFORE FINALIZING your program selection:

1. Seek a challenging academic program that will enhance your Trinity education.
   Before selecting your program, consider your overall academic goals—what fields of study do you wish to pursue while studying away? How will study away enhance your degree? Will the program(s) you are considering fulfill major, minor, general education requirements, or electives? What skills do you wish to acquire abroad? How can study away help you academically when you return to Trinity?

2. Select the semester you would like to study away.
   If you are applying for one semester, the College requires that you be as flexible as possible about your choice of terms. Students select a preferred study away semester, but are not guaranteed their choice. When considering your preferred semester, think about your academic requirements, campus or personal commitments, and program options (the best program for you may be offered during one term only).

3. Focus on your personal goals, preferences, and priorities.
   As you consider all of your options for study away, think about your professional and personal goals and interests. How will a period of study away affect or enhance your later career and graduate study plans? Consider your personal obligations and schedule, including, for example, how plans for summer internship or employment might influence your selection. Many academic schedules outside the U.S. run through the end of June or into July or start in July and end in November.

4. Decide on the location in which you wish to study.
   Do you wish to study in a major city or in a less populated area? In many cases, it may be possible to be near a large city (within 1-2 hours by train), while gaining the advantage of integration with local cultures than may be possible in a large metropolitan area. That said; consider the advantages to experiencing life in or near a city and furthering your urban/global experience at Trinity! If you study away in a major city, you have access to many political, cultural, and social institutions and can utilize the city as your extended classroom.

5. Determine the language requirements.
   Do you need to fulfill the Trinity language requirement or work toward fluency in a foreign language? Study abroad is an excellent way to strengthen your skills in a language or start learning a new one. It is also an excellent way to fulfill the new language requirement. However, many programs (even in non-English speaking destinations) offer courses in English. If your program does not have a language prerequisite but is in a non-English speaking country, you are encouraged to enroll in at least one language course at Trinity (if available) before your period of study away. You are also strongly encouraged to take at least one language course while studying abroad.
6. Consider the various types of programs available.
Do you want a full immersion experience, studying with foreign students in regular university classes? Do you prefer a group program with US students and US-style courses? Do you prefer a program offering a mixture of its own courses and foreign university courses? What level of support do you want from your program? Are you independent by nature? Do you want a program that will offer field study, internships, or service learning? There are major differences between study away programs and their structure and offerings. The OSA staff can help provide you with advice to make an appropriate selection.

7. Think about your housing preferences.
You should consider the types(s) of accommodations offered by a particular program or institution: housing in apartments or residence halls with students from your host country, housing in apartments or residence halls with other international students, or homestays with families.

8. Consider visa requirements and timelines for your program of choice
For most countries, you will be required to apply for a study visa in order to remain in the country for the duration of your program. Visas may take up to 12 weeks or more to secure and require a lot of paperwork. Many consulates require an in-person appearance in their office, requiring travel to and from the consulate, as well as the payment of visa fees. If you are planning to study away for the full year in two different countries, please consult with the OSA to determine if your choice is feasible. If you are an international student, the visa process may be more complicated or lengthy, so please consult the OSA early to ensure you have a good plan in place.

9. Make your own decision
Finally, don't choose your study away programs based solely upon what your friends are doing, what you or your family thinks you “should” do, or what location seems to have the best travel opportunities. Examine your goals and make an informed choice that best fits your interests, studies, and personality.
First, you must meet the following criteria in order to be eligible and submit a request to study away:

• Your cumulative GPA is 2.5 or higher (most programs actually require at least a 2.7, and many require at least a 3.0, so if your GPA is 2.5–2.7 although you are eligible to study away, your program options will be limited).

• You are not currently on academic or disciplinary probation.

If your GPA is below 2.5, or you are currently on academic or disciplinary probation, you must wait and contact us about studying away once your GPA has increased or you are off probation. Also, if you are interested in a study away program with a GPA requirement higher than your current GPA, you may need to study hard for a semester and get your GPA up before being able to apply.

If you are eligible to study away, congratulations! Now log into Moodle and look for the Trinity College Study Away Process course. You have until December 17th to complete all steps listed in the course.

All sophomores and first semester juniors with GPAs of 2.5 or above are automatically enrolled in this course. If you believe you should be enrolled in the Moodle course based on these criteria, but you do not have access to it, please contact us at studyaway@trincoll.edu so that we can check your record and enroll you if you are eligible.

In the Moodle course, you will find the complete study away process, and all of the links that you need to complete it, step by step!

If you have any questions about the process after reviewing it in Moodle, please let us know at studyaway@trincoll.edu or x2005.

Note that the study away application process involves attending an information session, setting up one-on-one study away advising meetings, submitting a request and an online application – it cannot be done at the last minute, so although the deadline to request to study away is December 17th, you should begin the process right away! See page 17 for step by step instructions on how to submit your request.

IMPORTANT NOTE FOR ALL STUDENTS

ALL STUDENTS WHO SUBMIT A SUCCESSFUL REQUEST TO STUDY AWAY ARE PLACED ON A COLLEGE STUDY AWAY LIST AND ARE CONSIDERED TO BE STUDYING AWAY FOR THEIR APPROVED TERM. STUDENTS MUST OFFICIALLY WITHDRAW FROM STUDY AWAY TO BE REMOVED FROM THIS LIST. Students have until April 1 for fall or full year programs or October 10 for spring programs to withdraw without penalty. Students who withdraw later will incur a $500 withdrawal fee and a 500-point housing lottery penalty. Note any student who withdraws from study away, after the deadline, risks not having on-campus housing.
Once students have followed the process outlined in Moodle and been approved to study away, they should start the program application process.

We recommend starting as early as possible - well in advance of all listed deadlines and/or recommended deadlines – It is your responsibility to check all program deadlines, as these vary and change. Note that many study away programs accept students on a rolling admissions basis, and may fill up very early. Other programs may indicate late deadlines, but students may find that late applicants are not guaranteed housing or may lose spots in desired classes. So apply as early as possible.

IMPORTANT: If you wish to study on a program with a deadline prior to early February (when OSA approval e-mails are sent out), please contact the OSA asap and your Request to Study Away will be processed early. Your advisor will tell you if he/she is aware that the program you are planning on applying to has an early deadline, but ultimately the responsibility lies with you to know and apply by the deadline.

Application forms for Trinity programs are available on the OSA website. The application link will be e-mailed to students who select Trinity programs. Most applications for approved programs are available on program websites or can be obtained from the program providers directly. The OSA also has a resource library with many program materials.

Many program applications have a form that a study abroad advisor, dean, or other faculty/staff member must sign. E-mail or bring this form to your OSA Advisor at least one week before the form is due – do not bring to another office – these forms MUST be filled out by an OSA advisor.

Most programs also require a recommendation from one or more faculty members. Choose faculty members who know you, are acquainted with your work, and are familiar with your academic capabilities, preferably a professor whom you have taken a course with.

After you have completed your program applications, be patient. It may take several weeks or longer for programs to process applications. Alternately, applications may not be reviewed prior to a certain date or may be reviewed at regular intervals. This will vary by program and date of application. It is wise to apply as early as possible and to check that all your application materials have been received. If you have done this, don't worry if your friends receive an acceptance before you do.
COSTS AND FINANCIAL AID

All Trinity students can find a program or programs that are affordable. Tuition and/or room and board charges for some programs may be higher or lower than Trinity costs, but most are comparable to the costs of Trinity (excluding round trip transportation to your host country and personal spending money).

Program Fees
Students studying on a Trinity program will pay the Trinity Comprehensive Fee. Depending on the program, there may be slight adjustments for meals and housing. For example, if you will live in an apartment in Paris with a kitchen, you will not be billed for a meal plan, but will still need to allocate funds for food. Please ask the OSA or the Student Accounts Office for more detailed cost information.

Students studying on Affiliate, approved or Petitioned programs will pay the program provider directly. In addition, there is a Study Away Fee associated with these programs that is billed by Trinity.

Financial Aid
Students who receive financial aid can use their aid for any Trinity, approved, Affiliate, and Petitioned programs by Trinity College (see the end of this booklet for a complete list). Students who are on aid and who want to meet with a financial aid advisor to talk about how their aid package will apply to the program they are considering can make an appointment online -- the link to do so can be found under the “Meet with an Advisor” study away step in Moodle.

Study Away Fee
A Study Away Fee is charged by the College whenever a student attends an affiliate, approved, or petitioned program not administered by Trinity College for a semester or year. There is no study away fee for Trinity administered programs. The fee is assessed through the regular Trinity billing process.

Note that the Study Away Fee is a Trinity fee that is assessed to cover costs incurred by the College to provide services to students studying on non-Trinity program. Offices that assist students throughout the study away process include the OSA, Office of Residential Life, Dean of Students’ Office, Business Office, Students Accounts’ Office, the Registrar’s Office, Office of Financial Aid, and academic departments. Students must pay this fee before their transfer credits from their program will be processed and before they will be able to register for classes at Trinity for the following semester.

For Affiliate programs, there is a study away fee of $1,000 for one semester or $1,200 for two semesters.

For Approved & Petitioned programs, the Study Away Fee is $3,000 for one semester or $3,500 for two semesters.
CREDIT AND GRADES

Some students are concerned that a semester or a year spent on study away may prevent them from fulfilling their undergraduate requirements at Trinity. However, most students earn credit for some or more of these requirements while studying away. The key to arranging credit for courses taken while studying away is careful and early planning. You should meet with your academic advisor to determine what department(s) you will need to meet requirements in while studying away and then meet with a study away advisor to learn about programs that offer an appropriate course of study.

Once you have met with a study away advisor and determined your first choice program, you should once again meet with your academic advisor with a specific list of courses that you are thinking about taking so that they can help you determine which requirements these classes may fulfill (if at all possible—not all programs list specific courses long enough in advance). Prior to leaving the semester before you study away, your faculty advisor must sign your Application for Transfer Credit (all students taking one or more classes not taught by a Trinity faculty member on a Trinity or pre-approved program must complete this form). The only exceptions to the Application for Transfer Credit requirement are Trinity-taught courses on Trinity programs (many Trinity programs also offer courses at partner institutions; the Application for Transfer Credit is required for these courses).

When selecting classes for your semester or year away, please note that the Trinity College policy for transfer credit stipulate that the COURSES MUST BE NON-REPETITIVE LIBERAL ARTS COURSES. This means that, while away, you may not take a course that duplicates a course taken at Trinity. IN ORDER TO EARN TRANSFER CREDIT FOR NON-TRINITY PROGRAMS, YOU MUST EARN A C- OR ABOVE. You may only receive transfer credit for liberal arts courses, i.e. the type of courses offered at Trinity (NOT vocational, medical, legal, business, journalism, or professional). Courses that do not meet this requirement will not be pre-approved for transfer credit. Students cannot take courses pass/fail while studying away.
Grades & GPA Calculation for Trinity Programs

For all courses on Trinity programs (both those taught by Trinity faculty and those taught at partner institutions), all grades will be recorded on your transcript and all grades will be converted by Trinity to the Trinity system and calculated into your GPA. All courses that you stay enrolled in past the add/drop date will appear on your transcript, just as courses taken on campus in Hartford do. You may not request to “not transfer” a course taken while studying away.

These Trinity programs offer Trinity-taught courses that do not require an application for transfer credit:
- Trinity College Rome Campus, Italy
- Trinity-in-Paris (for students who do not take courses at the Institute Catholique or Sciences Po)
- Trinity LaMaMa

These Trinity programs also offer GPA-calculating transfer credit from partner institutions:
- Trinity-in-Barcelona, Spain (UPF, UB, UAB, and IBEI classes)
- Trinity-in-Buenos Aires, Argentina (all IFSA and host university classes)
- Trinity-in-Cape Town, South Africa (UWC and UCT classes)
- Trinity-in-Paris, France (classes at the Institut Catholique and Sciences Po)
- Trinity-in-Shanghai (Fudan University classes)
- Trinity-in-Trinidad (UWI classes only)
- Trinity-in-Vienna, Austria (U Vienna classes)
- Twelve College Exchange Institutions (all classes)

Grades & GPA Calculation on Non-Trinity Programs

Students on pre-approved programs earn grades that do NOT calculate into the GPA (although the letter grades and courses will appear on your Trinity transcript. This is the case for all programs not listed under “Trinity Programs” above, including Affiliate programs, the Baden-Württemberg Exchange, Pre-Approved, and Petitioned Programs. To receive transfer credit, students must complete the Application for Transfer Credit form and follow the procedures outlined in the Student Handbook and on the Registrar’s Office website. Students who fail a class or under-enroll while studying on these programs STILL face academic probation at Trinity. As with Trinity programs, you may not request to “not transfer” a course that you enroll in and stay enrolled in past the add/drop date.
Minimum Enrollment & Pass/Fail

Students must enroll in between 4.0 and 6.0 credits per study away semester. Enrolling in for fewer than 4 will result in academic probation upon return to campus. The number of credits earned from individual courses varies per academic institution. Trinity students must be aware of how many credits each course is and ensure they are enrolled in a minimum of 4.0 credit hours. Please note that to earn 4.0 credit hours on some programs may mean enrolling in 4 or more courses.

Students are not able to take transfer credit courses pass/fail. Note that students who study away on pre-approved programs cannot choose to “not count” a class or “not transfer” a study away class. If they earn a grade that is less than a C-, they will be deficient by a credit. If a student fails a class or a student under-enrolls, s/he will incur academic probation. Please see the Trinity Student Handbook and Registrar’s Office website for more details, www.trincoll.edu/Academics/registrar/Documents/TransferCredit.pdf

Transcripts

Transcripts from host universities and programs – even Trinity programs – take a longer time to be processed. It could be a couple of months before the OSA receives a transcript for your time away.

Please Note: If you study away during the first semester of your senior year, be aware that your study away transcript may not be available until quite late in the second semester of your final year. Thus, if you plan to go to graduate school, the OSA recommends that you confer with your prospective graduate schools in advance to determine their policies on receiving your first semester senior year grades late.

Course Changes While Away

It is prudent, whenever possible, to identify alternate, extra courses and have these approved before you study away (when course listings are available in advance). This allows you to have extra classes pre-approved, which can help when you make changes due to fluctuations in course offerings or scheduling conflicts. It is common for students to make changes from abroad, but it is essential that you communicate the new courses information to both the Registrar’s Office and your academic advisor as soon as possible!

It is crucial that you develop a plan to maintain an open line of communication with your academic advisor while you are abroad (email, Skype, phone) for any academic questions, major questions, and approval for any course changes or additions to the Application for Transfer Credit. This is especially true if you are studying on a program where information on available courses at host universities are not available in advance (students will need to complete the entire Application for Transfer credit abroad – please submit right away to ensure that you can make any needed changes prior to add/drop deadlines.)
Earning Credits Toward Major/Minor Requirements, Distribution Requirements, and as Electives

In order to receive credit while studying away, complete the appropriate section of the Application for Transfer Credit for all classes not taught by Trinity faculty and check with the Trinity program faculty director or sponsor for information about how Trinity-taught classes will count.

It is the responsibility of each student to know which courses are approved for Major, Minor, General Education, or elective credit. Each department and program sets its own rules for credit transfer toward the major/minor. You should talk directly with your academic advisor, department chairperson, or program director to ensure you plan accordingly prior to studying away.

In order to avoid difficulties in receiving credit towards your major, all students should keep copies of your written work, course descriptions, the course syllabus, and a complete reading list for all courses you take. Remember that only credits for academic, non-repetitive, liberal arts courses (no business, journalism, etc.) are eligible for transfer credit.

Up to two of the General Education Distribution requirements may be fulfilled with courses taken away from Trinity. Read the section entitled “Distribution Courses” in the Trinity College Bulletin to determine whether any of the courses you plan to take while studying away will satisfy parts of this requirement. The Registrar's Office will decide whether a course can be used to fulfill a distribution requirement; contact Linda Gilbert, Associate Registrar, if you have questions about a particular course being eligible for transfer credit or about this process.

You can find the link to the Application for Transfer Credit here, as well as detailed information about transfer credit policies: http://www.trincoll.edu/Academics/registrar/student/Pages/Transfer.aspx
If you have a disability or a health concern, it is very important that you notify the programs to which you are applying. This will enable the program providers to be prepared to meet your needs and to assist you in planning a successful study away experience. In some cases, your program provider may recommend that you select an alternate program if you cannot be properly accommodated with your first choice. For information on study away resources for students with disabilities, contact Mobility International, http://www.miusa.org/.

If you have an ongoing physical, mental, or emotional health issue, please discuss your study away plans and options with your health care provider and develop a plan for continuation of treatment abroad. Do not discontinue treatment. Most programs do not employ physicians, healthcare providers, or mental health professionals. In addition, treatment for medical or mental health conditions may not be as widely accessible as in the U.S. Further, standards of health care and physical and mental health services vary greatly overseas, as do cultural norms surrounding illness and treatment. Discuss study away with your health care provider to ensure that you make an informed decision. Also, if you are taking medication, please note that medications that are legal in the U.S. may be illegal abroad (such as Adderall). Students studying on Trinity programs are enrolled in HTH study abroad health insurance, which can provide resources to assist you and your health care provider in devising a treatment plan for your time abroad.

| During Fall Semester 2014 | Discuss your plans to study away with your academic advisor and a faculty member in your intended major department.
In the Moodle course, you will find the complete study away process and all the links you need to complete it. Make sure you complete each step.
If you have questions please contact the Office of Study Away. |
| December 17, 2014  | Your request to study away must be submitted online! Be sure to start following the steps in Moodle early (ideally in October or November) so that you can easily submit it on time. |
Request to Study Away Step by Step Instructions

1. Log into Moodle, go into the Study Away Process course, and click in the link under Step 4.

2. If you are starting a new request, select “Trinity Students Start New Application.”

4) Submit a Request to Study Away

The fourth step in the study away process is to submit a request to be approved to study away by the college. The deadline to request to study away for Fall 2014, Spring 2015, or both of those terms has passed. You can submit a late request by clicking on this link to start a new request. Late requests will be approved if the college is able to allow more students to study away for the term that you are interested in (there is a cap on the number of students who can be away from the college at one time). Late requests will not be reviewed unless you meet with an OSA advisor about the request before submitting it.

TYPES OF SEMESTER/YEAR STUDY AWAY PROGRAMS

Trinity Administered Programs:
These Trinity programs have been developed by Trinity faculty and are fully administered by the OSA. They have strong links to the Trinity curriculum and offer internships and/or other opportunities for community engagement. Students on these programs pay the Trinity Comprehensive Fee and no study away fee.

Trinity Exchange Programs:
These Trinity programs provide students with the opportunity to directly enroll at a host university for one or more semesters. Students on these programs pay the Trinity Comprehensive Fee, but may pay room and board on-site – check with the OSA for details. These programs are exempt from the study away fee.

Affiliate Programs:
These programs are administered by a provider but have strong links with Trinity College. Students whom study on these programs pay the program provider directly and a study away fee to Trinity of $1000 for one semester or $1200 for two semesters.

Approved Programs:
These programs are administered by a program provider or university. Students attending these programs pay the provider directly plus pay an administrative fee of $3,000 for one semester or $3,500 for two semesters to Trinity. Pre-Approved programs have been reviewed by the Trinity College Curriculum Committee and the OSA. Please see the end of this booklet or the OSA website for a full list.

Students are responsible for knowing the application deadlines and program dates for the programs they are interested in. Please refer to the specific program websites for the most updated information and APPLY early for your approved program/term and one approved back up!
Trinity Administered Programs

Trinity-in-Cape Town, in association with ISA
www.trincoll.edu/studyaway
Terms offered: fall, spring, or full year. Language of instruction: English. Eligibility requirements: 2.5 GPA. Housing: student apartments. Recommended majors/Possible areas of study: African Studies; International Studies, Political Science, History, Environmental Science, Women, Gender & Sexuality, Sciences, Theater and Dance; Engineering, Human Rights, Sociology, Psychology, Arts
This program is set in Cape Town, a beautiful port city tucked beneath the Table Mountain. South Africa’s unique history, varied cultural traditions, and diverse population make it a rich environment for study abroad. Trinity-in-Cape Town allows students to experience a society engaged in extensive political and social change following a period of racial, cultural, and political repression. Students take a program core course with the Trinity Academic Director on contemporary South African history, politics, and culture that includes excursions to places of interest in and around Cape Town. Students also do an internship for credit in a local community organization and take their remaining courses at the University of Cape Town or the University of the Western Cape, two excellent, but quite different universities, that together offer courses in many disciplines. Students have the services of an On-Site Director through ISA and support of the ISA staff. In addition, they have full access to their host universities. A week-long orientation program and program excursions expose students to a variety of sites and experiences in and around Cape Town such as the Cape Peninsula, Robben Island, Aquila game reserve and volunteer weekend, and Table Mountain. Students also have the opportunity to travel to neighboring countries during the semester break.

Trinity-in-Buenos Aires, in association with IFSA-Butler
http://www.trincoll.edu/studyaway
Terms offered: fall, spring, or full year. Language of instruction: Spanish. Eligibility requirements: one year college-level Spanish. 2.8 GPA. Housing: homestays. Recommended majors/Possible areas of study: Hispanic Studies; Latin American Studies; Human Rights; Music; International Studies; Political Science; Economics; Sociology; Urban Studies; History.
The program is based in Buenos Aires, a large, sophisticated city that is home to almost 40% of the Argentine population. The city has strong European roots and its palatial mansions and wide boulevards have led to its nickname, “the Paris of the Americas.” This program is open to students with 1-2 years of Spanish (intermediate level students) or advanced level Spanish (2 ½ years or more of the language). All students on the program take a Trinity Core Class together taught in Spanish on the city of Buenos Aires, Human Rights, and Cultural Production, and do an internship or community service project for credit through Trinity. They also enroll in a class on Argentine society, and study intensive Spanish. Advanced students take their remaining classes at the Universidad de Buenos Aires, Di Tella University, the Universidad del Salvador, and/or the Universidad Católica de Argentina, fully integrated with Argentine students. Intermediate students enroll in courses designed for foreigners in the humanities and social sciences at the Universidad del Salvador. The program includes tutoring and excursions in and around the city and throughout the region. Students have access to the IFSA-Butler center in central Buenos Aires and also a Trinity On-Site Faculty Coordinator. Trinity-in-Trinidad, St. Augustine

Students will live in student apartments across from the Fudan University campus.

Trinity-in-Vienna
www.trincoll.edu/studyaway
This program is based at the prestigious University of Vienna and is open to students in all disciplines, but designed especially for Philosophy students. Vienna, the capital of Austria, is home to 1.6 million people. It is one of the great cultural centers of Europe with a continuous history of more than 2000 years. Vienna has produced many preeminent philosophers and remains a center of academic excellence. It is among the most important European cities: historically, culturally, artistically, intellectually, and geopolitically. The University of Vienna is one of the oldest German-speaking universities in the world and one of Europe’s best institutions of higher learning. The University has many strong curricular options in English in areas such as Philosophy, International Studies, Political Science, English, Public Policy and Law, Economics, and American Studies. Students with no previous German enroll in courses taught at the university in English with Austrian and international students. Students who have had four to five semesters of college-level German may enroll in courses in the German language, selecting from the university’s extensive departments and faculties. There are also university courses offered in French and other languages. All students study intensive German, take a program core course ‘Thought and Culture of Vienna,’ and have the option of doing an internship at a local museum or cultural organization. There is also a second core course in philosophy that is taken by all philosophy majors that is open to other interested students. The program includes excursions to Prague, Budapest, and Salzburg.

Embracing a metropolitan area of 10.5 million, Paris provides a vibrant and stimulating location for students. The program, which is set in the desirable St. Germain des Prés district on the Left Bank of Paris, is designed to accommodate students of all levels of French. Courses are offered in English in Art History, Architecture, History, Political Science, International Studies, French Studies, American Studies, English, Sociology, Urban Studies and Music. Students with advanced French language skills can take advanced literature courses offered by the program in French, as well as regular university courses at the ICP in French. ICP is a private university that has a wide array of course offerings in the Humanities, Education, and Social Sciences. The program includes excursions to other parts of France such as Normandy, the Loire Valley, and Giverny, to name a few, as well as shorter excursions to other areas throughout Paris. The program offers students strong academic support, cultural activities, and an ongoing orientation that provides opportunities for students to engage with their French peers.

Trinity College Rome Campus

www.trincoll.edu/studyaway/ Terms offered: fall or spring, or summer. Language of instruction: English and Italian language courses. Eligibility requirements: 3.0 GPA recommended. Housing: Trinity student housing. Recommended majors/Possible areas of study: Italian, Classics, Classical Civilization, Art History, Political Science, History, and Economics.

Trinity’s Rome Campus is the College’s oldest study abroad program (41 years) and is a popular choice with both Trinity and non-Trinity students, with approximately 55 participants each term. The program is set in Rome, a city that is a veritable museum of culture, history, art, and architecture. The Rome Campus is on the Aventine, one of the seven hills of Ancient Rome, now a pleasant residential neighborhood, overlooking the Tiber River and the Circus Maximus. The facilities are located in a renovated convent and include offices, classrooms, a dining hall, student residences, and a computer center. Students on the program have the opportunity to study treasures and ruins of several ancient civilizations. They can choose from courses in art history, economics, history, literature, political science, Italian language and literature, studio arts, and other areas. Students are able to participate in fieldwork in and around Rome and engage in internships. All courses are for Trinity in-residence credit and are taught by Trinity faculty or Italian instructors. Excursions and cultural opportunities are included.
Trinity-in Barcelona
www.trincoll.edu/studyaway
Terms offered: fall, spring, full year, or summer. Language of instruction: Spanish. Eligibility requirements: one year college-level Spanish or the equivalent; 2.7 GPA. Housing: home stays. Recommended majors/Possible areas of study: Hispanic Studies, Studio Arts, Art History, Literature, Anthropology, Political Science, History, and International Studies.
The program is set in the center of Barcelona, the capital of Catalonia, with its distinct language and culture. Barcelona has undergone a recent renaissance with entire districts undergoing renovation and development. From its medieval gothic quarter and historic old town to its world famous art nouveau buildings and futuristic Olympic Village on the harbor, Barcelona is a city of contrasts and unrivaled artistic beauty and diversity. All students on the program take an intensive Spanish course as well as the Trinity core class throughout the semester on the city of Barcelona that gives them an overview of its history and culture. For their remaining courses, students enroll in classes at the Universitat Pompeu Fabra, Universitat de Barcelona or the Universitat Autonoma de Barcelona. Depending upon Spanish level, students choose from special courses taught in Spanish for international students or regular university courses (also taught in Spanish). Possible subjects of study include classes in History, Hispanic Studies, Literature, Political Science, Philosophy, Public Policy and Law, Art History, International Relations, and other areas. The program features a comprehensive orientation, cultural activities and excursions.

www.trinitylamama.org
Terms Offered: Fall only. Language of Instruction: English. Eligibility Requirements: Recommended 2.7 GPA and background in Theater or Dance. Housing: Residence Halls. Recommended majors and areas of study: Theater, Dance, and Studio Arts.
The Trinity/LaMaMa Performing Arts Semester in NYC, Sponsored by the OSA and Trinity Department of Theater and Dance, utilizes the landscape and history of New York City as a catalyst for an intensive study in the arts. The semester is rooted in artistic exploration, experimental learning, and academic investigation. The unique opportunities include arts practice classes, an academic seminar, a non-profit arts internship, weekly attendance at the diverse performances, master classes, field studies, and a culminating final project. Students in this rigorous program attend over 70 performances during the semester and are fully immersed in all forms of art in New York City. Housing is located on the Upper East Side, in a building that also houses performance space.
Trinity Exchange Programs

Trinity College/Baden-Württemberg Exchange, various locations (Spring Only)

http://www.ctdhe.org/germany/

Terms offered: fall (limited universities), spring, or full year. Language of instruction: courses in German and English. Eligibility requirements: one to four semesters of college-level German. 2.7 GPA. Housing: dorms. Recommended majors/Possible areas of study: German, Social Sciences, Sciences, Humanities (full curricular options at nine universities throughout the Baden-Württemberg province).

The Baden-Württemberg Exchange Program is a Trinity-sponsored exchange among nine of Germany’s top universities, including the University of Heidelberg, University of Freiburg, University of Konstanz, University of Tübingen, University of Ulm, University of Karlsruhe, University of Mannheim, University of Stuttgart, and the University of Hohenheim, and the colleges and universities of the State of Connecticut. Situated in the southwestern part of Germany, Baden-Württemberg shares its borders with France, Switzerland, and Austria. This region is filled with natural beauty and historical landmarks, including Heidelberg Castle and the Black Forest. Baden-Württemberg is a powerful economic center within Europe and is home to some major international companies, such as Porsche and Mercedes-Benz. The program originated from a legislative partnership formed between the State of Connecticut and the German state of Baden-Württemberg in 1989. The agreement invites all students enrolled in colleges and universities in Connecticut to study at any institutions of higher learning in Baden-Württemberg. With nine universities from which to choose, students of all disciplines can be accommodated. The program offers a four-week orientation program, intensive German language, and scholarships. Full year participation is recommended.

AUSTRIA

Trinity-in-Vienna
www.trincoll.edu/studyaway

This program is based at the prestigious University of Vienna and is open to students in all disciplines, but designed especially for Philosophy students. Vienna, the capital of Austria, is home to 1.6 million people. It is one of the great cultural centers of Europe with a continuous history of more than 2000 years. Vienna has produced many preeminent philosophers and remains a center of academic excellence. It is among the most important European cities: historically, culturally, artistically, intellectually, and geopolitically. The University of Vienna is one of the oldest German-speaking universities in the world and one of Europe’s best institutions of higher learning. The University has many strong curricular options in English in areas such as Philosophy, International Studies, Political Science, English, Public Policy and Law, Economics, and American Studies. Students with no previous German enroll in courses taught at the university in English with Austrian and international students. Students who have had four to five semesters of college-level German may enroll in courses in the German language, selecting from the university’s extensive departments and faculties. There are also university courses offered in French and other languages. All students study intensive German, take a program core course ‘Thought and Culture of Vienna,’ and have the option of doing an internship at a local museum or cultural organization. There is also a second core course in philosophy that is taken by all philosophy majors that is open to other interested students. The program includes excursions to Prague, Budapest, and Salzburg.

The Baden-Württemberg Exchange Program is a Trinity-sponsored exchange among nine of Germany’s top universities, including the University of Heidelberg, University of Freiburg, University of Konstanz, University of Tübingen, University of Ulm, University of Karlsruhe, University of Mannheim, University of Stuttgart, and the University of Hohenheim, and the colleges and universities of the State of Connecticut.

Situated in the southwestern part of Germany, Baden-Württemberg shares its borders with France, Switzerland, and Austria. This region is filled with natural beauty and historical landmarks, including Heidelberg Castle and the Black Forest. Baden-Württemberg is a powerful economic center within Europe and is home to some major international companies, such as Porsche and Mercedes-Benz. The program originated from a legislative partnership formed between the State of Connecticut and the German state of Baden-Württemberg in 1989. The agreement invites all students enrolled in colleges and universities in Connecticut to study at any institutions of higher learning in Baden-Württemberg. With nine universities from which to choose, students of all disciplines can be accommodated. The program offers a four-week orientation program, intensive German language, and scholarships. Full year participation is recommended.
